Symposia

Medical Research for doctors and students in training

Wednesday 8 November 2017

 #rcpeNES17

Supported by the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh, NHS Education Scotland and Medical Schools Council.

Undergraduate medical students and trainee doctors carry out a wide range of research and this dedicated research symposium, hosted by the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh and NES, offers an opportunity to present findings; build on networks; and hear from established research leaders about their own experience in developing research careers.

- This symposium is an opportunity to learn about career paths in research.
- This symposium is an opportunity for Medical Students and Foundation Doctors to present their research projects.
- Presentation will be in the form of either oral or abstract form.

Keynote speakers:

Professor David Adams and Professor Stephen Smye

All presenters will be awarded a Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh/NES diploma.

The best undergraduate and the postgraduate presentations will be awarded with a College medal.

Programme to be confirmed in due course.

The deadline for Abstracts is Thursday 31 August 2017.
